DE TONI

PÂTISSERIE & BAKERY

It was passion for travel, adventure and – above everything else – pastry that convinced top chef Klemen Popit to move to the other side of the world. And 12 years on, aren't our taste buds glad the Slovenian pastry chef made the switch!

After establishing his business in Slovenia and perfecting his skills at the famous Le Cordon Bleu Culinary Art Institute in Sydney, where he won the prestigious Entrepreneurial Award in 2011, Klemen launched De Toni Patisserie and Bakery on Sydney's picturesque northern beaches.

Both Klemen and his business have not looked back, providing desserts for some of Sydney's finest restaurants and attracting rave reviews.

The award-winning chef combines the knowledge gained from his studies and time in the kitchen with the best and freshest ingredients to produce exquisite offerings to dovetail any meal.

"We only use the world's finest and freshest ingredients in our desserts like Callebaut Belgium chocolate, pure New Zealand butter renowned for its premium quality and low water content, Boiron fruit purées and more," Klemen explains.

"No pre-mixes are used in any of our desserts and everything is fresh and handmade daily in our kitchen.

"We maintain the highest standards and trends in the production of our desserts, pastries, entremets, gateaux, tarts, chocolates and French macarons."

And while Klemen is happily entrenched in Australia, he keeps tabs on food movements abroad.

"We stay abreast of the latest in European trends in creating imagination and creation combine to titillate your taste buds and stimulate your senses so if you're looking for something different, something special you've come to the right place," he says.

BEHIND TEAM DE TONI

Late on a Friday night ten years ago in a small kitchen on Sydney's Northern Beaches, Klemen and his partner Malci were packing boxes. Boxes of their handmade sugary goodness called 'macarons' that would take Australia and the world by storm. The dream that was De Toni Patisserie had become a reality.

De Toni is an old family name, and family defines this flourishing wholesale patisserie. Arriving from Slovenia in 2010 where they still own and operate a successful hotel and restaurant, Klemen, Malci and their son Matt settled in Allambie Heights. Their 'family' has grown from two to thirty and their production facility has moved from Balgowlah to Brookvale and more recently to a state of the art facility in Frenchs Forest.

The heart of De Toni though is not just a tight-knit team. Innovation and imagination drives Klem to bring his creations to life.

"I take inspiration from the things around me – from shapes and patterns in nature.

We did a trip to Far North Queensland a few years ago and I've started experimenting with Australian native ingredients like wattle seed, lemon myrtle and bush plum. I love tying my experiences to my creations"

From glossy domes filled with soft, creamy caramel and airy sponge to juicy homestyle carrot cake the range that De Toni produces is limitless. The ever-changing line-up caters for specific dietary requirements, which is crucial in today's market.

"There's been a big increase in demand for vegan desserts in the last two years. I feel like the main driver is the healthier lifestyle people choose, not necessarily the intolerance to common allergens.

We produce vegan desserts, that are also gluten and nut free. It's a problem solver for restaurants, airlines or events. It means they don't have to have different options for every allergen category but have one option that covers it all."

The team are currently working on developing some new bakery lines – croissants, brioche and the traditional Slovenian nut roll Potica.

"At the moment I really like working with yeasted doughs. They look easy to make but it takes a lot of training to understand how to develop deep flavours and good, crunchy texture. It's satisfying when you get a good end result"

And it's this striving for excellence which has seen the De Toni customer base grow to include events, venues, weddings, cruiseships, airlines, and wholesale distribution centres. Some of their most challenging projects are bespoke desserts like the edible chocolate Joshua tree for the Australian U2 tour; bat, ball and stumps for the New Year's Day Australian Test Match and Harry Potter's Snitch Ball and Minion Ball for a Playstation launch.

"At the end of the day it's really about keeping our customers happy. We've driven emergency dessert deliveries to the other side of Sydney at 10 o'clock at night. Nothing is ever too much of a hassle. And if you're looking for something different, something unique – really, you dream it we can do it."

“De Toni strives to be the best in what they do. Using quality ingredients and a highly skilled team, they offer variety and flexibility to all their customers.

At Mayers Fine Foods we proud to be a supplier to De Toni for many years. We highly recommend them to any customers looking for best quality cakes and patisseries. ”

CELEBRITY CHEF BRENT SAVAGE

Celebrity chef Brent Savage has never met a challenge he didn't like. Right back from his humble beginnings as a "dish pig", Savage's philosophy has been to use every experience – good and bad - as a learning block to be put into use down the track.

The lessons learned continued to be implemented many years down the track at any one of the four award-winning contemporary restaurants he co-owns - Bentley, Monopole, Cirrus and Yellow.

But still the challenges come his way, be it as an owner or wielding the tongs in the kitchen, where he often found.

COVID has had a devastating impact on the hospitality industry, with many restaurants shutting their doors for good. Savage's eateries have not been completely insulated from the damage, yet he does see some blue sky ahead. Good times, he hopes, will follow the dark times.

"I truly believe that post COVID we can get things back to normal, or the 'new normal'," he says.

"Moving forward, I feel people will be more passionate about good food and going out for memorable dining experiences. Everyone will be more grateful and appreciative of what Sydney has to offer."

Part of Savage's philosophy is to always look at new ways of doing things. With that in mind, he has partnered with northern beaches-based patisserie and bakery, DeToni, to provide desserts at many of his restaurants. The relationship has been a win-win for both parties.

"They are professional, efficient and produce really consistent and reliable desserts. Nothing is ever a problem and I would highly recommend them."

While linking with DeToni was no gamble, Savage is not scared to roll the dice in other areas of his business.

He took such a sizeable risk at Yellow, helping design a plant-based menu to meet the demand for vegetarian and vegan diners.

It's more than paid off.

"Recognising a demand for vegetarian and vegan dining in Sydney, in 2015 we decided to create an entirely plant-based menu with a focus on interesting and heirloom vegetables, grown by local suppliers," Savage explains.

"Whilst it might have been seen as a risky move we have never been busier and we are constantly striving to ensure it is one of the top vegetarian dining experiences in the world.

"Yellow's clientele are really conscious not only about what they are eating but where it came from and how it was sourced. They really appreciate local suppliers, fresh produce and new varieties.

Savage sources food from as far away as the Hunter Valley and as close as the Eveleigh markets.

"I'm a huge fan of produce that is grown locally in the Sydney basin and in particular the Blue Mountains and the Hunter Valley. We're fortunate in Australia as great produce is able to be grown across the country," he continues.

"We are privileged to have to have an amazingly dedicated and loyal customer base who trust us

"I have collaborated with De Toni's on numerous projects, and have always been impressed with the products that they produce," Savage enthuses.

to give them a great experience. I have the responsibility of not letting them down."

Other gambles?

How about introducing vegetables to dessert menus?

"Using vegetables as a base for our desserts might challenge some people's traditional notion of what a dessert should look like," he says.

"However, while the combinations may not always make sense on paper, the flavor profiles can be really different and delicious – for example parsnip, Jerusalem artichoke, pumpkin and carrot have a high sugar content and can make a great base for desserts."

Savage is so busy there is little time for reflection. But he is forever grateful for the opportunities afforded him – today and right back from the time he first tied an apron.

"As a young cook I was lucky enough to work for some of Australia's best chefs, which really gave me the confidence to get out there and ultimately help me to become the chef I am today," he declares.

"I have always believed that the more you put into our industry the more you get out.

"As a chef I have always been really passionate about our industry."

"Being invited to cook and demonstrate my food knowledge around the world has been a career highlight for me. I always enjoy the opportunity to gain and share knowledge with like-minded people." •

PLATED DESSERTS

It's said people "eat with their eyes first".

It means the visual appearance is so, so important to any meal and it is no different when it comes to the end of your event or celebration.

Plated desserts are the final impression a chef gives their guests. In order to achieve balance, the chef has to focus on what they want the finished product to convey and create their components accordingly.

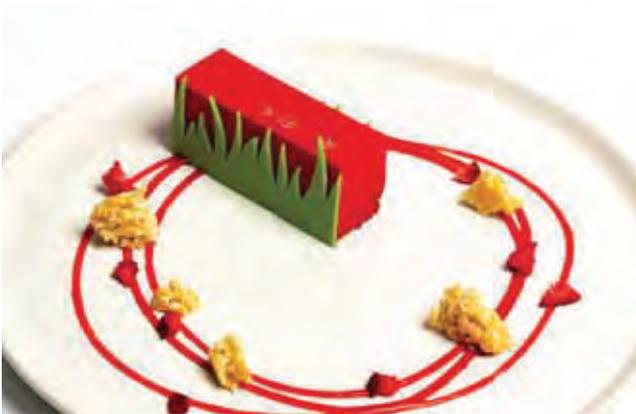

There are four components of a plated dessert: The main item, the dessert sauces, the crunch component, and the garnish. De Toni can ensure you hit the mark every time by working with the customer to produce the very best in plated desserts

We also help create custom-tailored dessert according to the theme, flavour and colour of a customer's function.

We can also offer advice on plating ideas and, best of all, supply all the quality elements for plated desserts.

And if you are looking to present a new menu or produce marketing material to catch the eye, De Toni can plate you up to ensure the perfect centrepiece for your photo shoot.

FRENCH MACARONS

You run out of superlatives to describe the French macaron. Delightful, delicious, decadent, enticing, exquisite... the list goes on.

For such a star, the macaron is simple in nature, made only from finely ground almonds, sugar and egg whites. Its distinctive feature lies in its almond flavour and round shape. When bitten into, its delicate but crunchy outer shell gives way to a soft almond meringue on the inside. For a heavenly experience, two macaron halves are stuck together and filled with a rich chocolate ganache, custard or flavoured Creme au Beurre.

CROQUEMBOUCHE & MACARON TOWERS

CROQUEMBOUCHE

There's a show-off at every party – and the not-so-humble croquebouche demands your attention the moment you set eyes on this tower of taste.

Be it a party, wedding or function, guests count down the hours until they bring the tower down to size. The croquebouche's profiteroles are traditionally filled with vanilla creme patisserie, Grand Marnier creme or chocolate creme. De Toni also offers other options, including hazelnut praline, raspberry and mango. Pate choux buns are then dipped in caramel toffee and either left plain or dipped in sugar pearls. There's choices from 100 pieces, 150 pieces, 200 pieces or 250 pieces.

Your event showstopper, profiterols filled with vanilla, chocolate, praline, raspberry or salted caramel filling, dipped in toffee or chocolate.

Size: 100-250pcs | Serves: 100 to 250 persons
Size: 1 unit | Storage: refrigerated

MACARON TOWERS

Question: What's better than one macaron?
Answer: Hundreds of macarons

At De Toni, they stack these pastry favourites into a tower of dessert power. Born in Italy centuries ago and developed into a Parisian speciality, the macaron is simple in nature, made only from finely ground almonds, sugar and egg whites. Its distinctive feature lies in its almond flavour and round shape. When bitten into, its delicate but crunchy outer shell gives way to a soft almond meringue on the inside. For a heavenly experience, two macaron halves are stuck together and filled with a rich chocolate ganache, custard or flavoured Creme au Beurre.

A centerpiece for a buffet table, select any flavours to match your event theme or colours.
